Death of local child:

Hit-and-run suspect turns himself in at Yolo Co. jail

■ Public pressure may have helped bring the surrender of suspect in hit-and-run death of local five-year old

By Steve Marschke

A 35-year old suspect from Rio Linda surrendered at the Yolo County Jail Sunday evening in connection with the Aug. 8 hit-and-run death of a five year old West Sacramento boy. Bail has been set at $25,000.

Jack Willard Davis went to the Gibson Rd. jail facility near Woodland at about 6 p.m. Sunday, where he was booked for driving with a suspended license and for felony hit-and-run. Davis was the subject of a search by three West Sacramento detectives and one Sacramento County detective following the Maple St. accident which killed Brian Vannak Sim, who was bicycling in the street while visiting in the area.

"He has been arrested before and is well known to the Sacramento Sheriff's Dept.," said Det. Tom Bowler of the West Sacramento Police Department.

Onlookers report that after Griffin's 1972 Dodge van struck the boy, Davis got out of the vehicle, saw the dead child, and then re-entered his van and drove away. Witnesses obtained a description of both the suspect and his vehicle.

The van was later found in a WalMart parking lot near Watt and Elverta, after a citizen noticed it fit the description of the one mentioned in news reports of the accident.

"We searched from Tuesday through Friday for him," said Bowler. "A couple of times we were nipping at his heels, missing him by just an hour or a couple of hours. We received several anonymous calls from friends of his trying to help us find him."

Then, the police received an indication Davis might surrender.

"On Friday, I received a call from an attorney who said Davis had contacted him, and was contemplating turning himself in."

The surrender didn't immediately happen, but on Sunday, the suspect arrived unannounced at the jail to be booked.

Initial reports listed the last name of Davis as "Griffin," which Bowler said is the last name of the suspect's mother, and is Davis's aliases. But despite the different name, he is the same individual police were pursuing within hours of the crash.

"We'd like to thank the media and the public for all the help in bringing Davis in," added the detective.

Republicans say 'Kick out Vic'

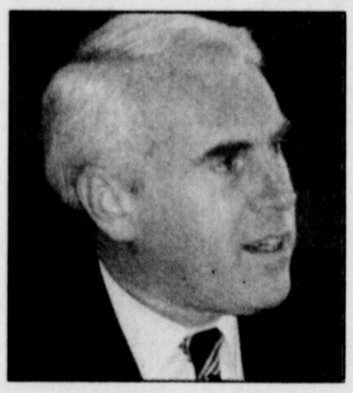
By David Weller

With the U. S. congressional election still a year and a half away, and before any republicans have declared that they will run, the state and national Republican Parties have already targeted Vic Fazio's third district seat.

Standing in front of Fazio's Woodland office Tuesday, John Herrington, the California Republican Party chairman, announced the beginning of a high profile campaign to oust the long-time chairman from his seat.

"The program will target Fazio in his home district through a series of campaign-style rallies, grass-roots organizations and radio advertising," according to a Republican Party press release.

Party spokeswoman Victoria Herrington said that Fazio is being targeted because the republicans believe they can capture his seat.



REP. VIC FAZIO: G.O.P Target

"He is vulnerable. He is part of the leadership, a high profile democrat who won the last election (against conservation Dixon republican Tim LeFevre) by only 3 percent," she said.

Anti-Fazio radio ads taking Fazio to task for the congressional democrats' failure to come up with a plan to overhaul the Medicare system will be the focal point of the campaign. The ads were produced jointly by the Republican National Committee and the National Republican Congressional Committee.

"Today, our message is a simple one. We are here to kick out Vic. Vic Fazio has voted against the balanced budget amendment, for Clinton's tax increases, and has refused to stand up and help to save Medicare. He has been walking all over his constituents for almost twenty years. Now it's our turn to give him the boot.

"Ignoring Medicare in his district is like a doctor ignoring the symptoms of his patient. Sooner

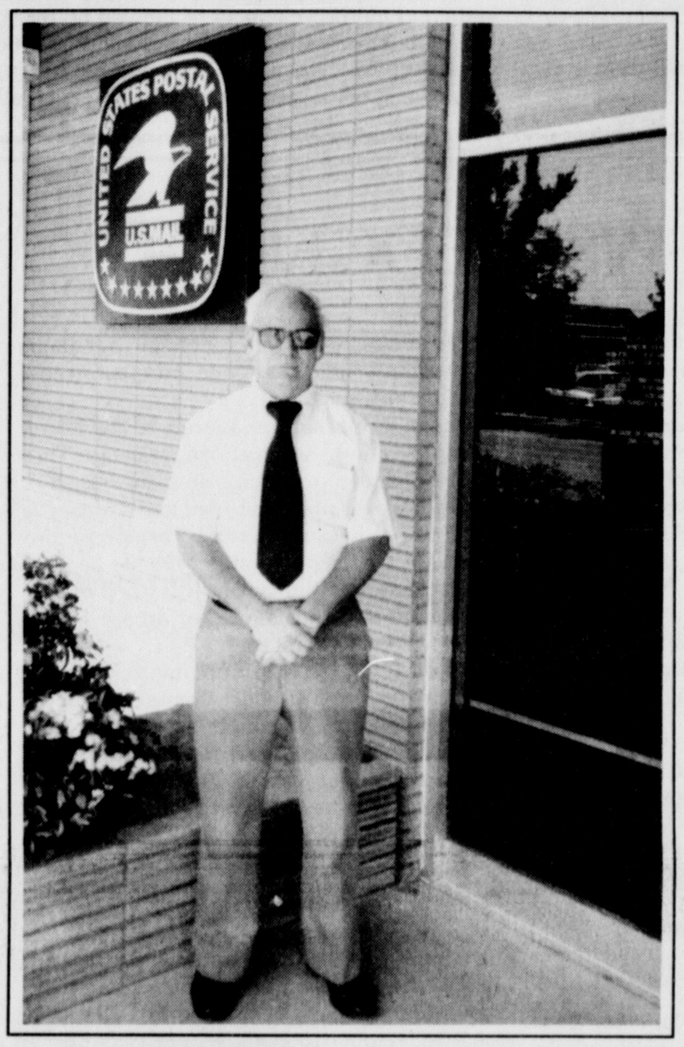
Hanging up the mailbag



RAY JONES, retired postmaster

By Steve Marschke

Ray Jones started as one of the first three mail carriers at West Sacramento's Broderick post office in 1956.

When he retired last month, he may have been the post office's last postmaster -- if the postal service decides to consolidate local postal facilities.

But although he is known to local customers for decades of service at the same post office, it is his public service that Jones is known for city-wide.

Jones, 65, has served as a local mayor, city council member and school board president, as well as on a host of other local civic organizations, planning organizations and clubs.

Retirement will bring with it some golf, additional trips to Lake Tahoe with wife Ann, and even more civic participation, Jones hopes.

"I've taken some time to do quite a few things at home -- to get my house and yard back together and so forth," he commented Tuesday. "But I want to continue my public participation -- particularly for the golf course" proposed by Live Oak/Riviera Lakes for south of the city.

That proposal, which would require annexation of land close to Clarksburg into West Sacramento, has stalled for the moment, but Jones has not given up on it.

The former mayor also hopes he may have a chance to participate when the county's Local Agency Formation Commission goes to work on defining West Sacramento's eventual city limits.

"I would definitely want to work on LAFCO if asked," he said. "I don't think West Sacramento should go all the way to Elkhorn. I do think it should go up to the weir -- there's about 6-700 acres up there. And it should go south to Babel Slough."

Jones said his own favorite political figure is probably Harry Truman.

"I did like Harry," he explained. "He was honest and direct in his dealings. I think he took things head on. Locally, I've always admired supervisor Helen Thomson for her education issues, as well as supervisor Betsy Marchand."

He also "tremendously admired" Julius Feher, the late editor and co-founder of the News-Ledger, said Jones.

He is proud of his participation in People for Better Water, which helped bring an effective drinking water plant to West Sacramento in 1985-86. And he is proud of his participation as one of the first members of the West Sacramento City Council when the city started in 1987.

"I think collectively we set a very solid foundation for the city," Jones commented. "The first six months the council used to meet at the library. We established a pattern of public participation and a very solid financial base for the city."

"I was the only one (of the original five council members) who had any public experience," he added. "I like to think I had a major influ-

Water agencies critique EIR

■ Downstream water users express concern about paper plant's impacts as city listens to criticisms of environmental study

By Steve Marschke

West Sacramento's planned newspaper recycling plant is "unacceptable as proposed," said the representative of a water agency coalition which serves about 20 million California customers.

The comment was made to the News-Ledger on Tuesday, following last Thursday's public hearing on the draft environmental impact report (EIR) for the proposed new city sewage plant. The city sewage plant would handle the liquid wastes from the $1 billion recycling plant, and so the report provides the first in-depth look at what the plant's wastes are expected to do to the Sacramento River and Delta areas.

Public comment on the report will be accepted by the city planning department until Aug. 24, at which time the report's authors (EIP Associates of Sacramento) will be asked to prepare responses to comments and criticisms and include them in a "final" EIR.

The final EIR will then be sent to the city council for approval, and opponents of the project, if not satisfied with the actions of the council and the recycling plant partners, could try to block the paper plant in court.

Byron Buck, executive director of the California Urban Water Association, said the EIR does a "fairly credible" job of outlining the plant's sewage impacts, and that those impacts are "unacceptable" to his association unless they are further reduced.

"There just apparently isn't a consistent willingness by the proponent to mitigate these impacts," said Buck. "In its current state, with the level of mitigation that's been offered, we're opposed to this project.

"Under this EIR, they're proposing no mitigation for the release of salts and mercury," he continued. "They

Sacramento social servant discusses motel voucher issue

By David Weller

Rent vouchers being issued by Sacramento based non-profit assistance agencies are the result of new federal and state laws, according to according to Anne Kitt of LIFE (Living in Familiar Environments).

The laws which went into effect in June, require that a third party administer social security and state disability insurance payments for people known to abuse drugs and alcohol.

Additionally, they place a 36 month disability limit on people in drug and alcohol treatment, and include a treatment requirement. People found out of compliance can lose their disability payments for up to three months.

LIFE is one of two private agencies identified by the West Sacramento Police Department as an issuer of vouchers. The other agency is Loaves and Fishes.

The police department reported two weeks ago a significant increase in the number of people living in West Sacramento motels on vouchers issued in Sacramento.

Police Chief Larry Gore stated at that time that the problem of people receiving vouchers in Sacramento and crossing the river to use them in West Sacramento motels puts pressure on the Yolo County welfare system because it allows people from Sacramento to establish residency in Yolo County.

According to Kitt, the opposite is true. "The problem is that people living in motels in West Sacramento have their Social Security payments sent to our address. They establish residency in Sacramento County," she said.

Kitt sympathized with the problems posed by the existence of affordable motels in West Sacramento, but said that the police would probably be encountering these people on the streets anyway.

She also defended her program's service to the community. "We don't just get the money and disperse it. Part of our function is to make sure clients are in compliance. Since we have been in existence, we have returned more than $700,000 to Social Security Administration in undeserved payments," she said.

Talk radio isn't just for felons and right-wing wackos

Editor's Note: Ray Cushing is filling in while Daryl Fisher is on vacation.

My Front Pages

By Ray Cushing

I work at home, and for the past few weeks I've been working on a time-consuming job that requires a lot of staring at the computer screen but not much mental effort. As a result I've been able to partcipate in the latest cultural phenomenon—talk radio.

As you probably know, talk radio has taken the place of the corner bar, the cafe and the town square as the place where people get together to discuss the issues of the day. I've not only been listening, I've been calling. My favorite show is Enid Goldstein on KSTE, but I also tune into Jeff Katz, Tom Leykis and Dr. Laura Schlesinger on the same station.

It's your basic "get a life" scenario but, as John Lennon observed, "I'm not the only one." Another regular on KSTE is my pal Jackson Griffith, senior editor of PULSE! Magazine, which is published by Tower Records on Del Monte Boulevard. Being busy guys, Jackson and I don't find much time to chat in person but when we run into each other at a downtown coffee house our greeting has become: "Hey, I heard you on Enid Goldstein!" "Yeah, I heard you too!"

Such is interpersonal communication in the '90s.

One of the benefits of living in West Sac is being able to take part in momentous events that take place at the Capitol. We went to one last week—the spontaneous "be-in" held at Capitol Park on Wednesday to mark the passing of Grateful Dead guitarist Jerry Garcia.

Over 2,000 Garcia fans in tie-dye, business suits and motorcycle jackets showed up for the 7-10 p.m. ritual. It was a throwback to the '60s when people of like mind would get together just to share "good vibes." This one was especially poignant because it took place around the Vietnam Veterans Memorial. If any two things represent the '60s, it's the Vietnam War and the Grateful Dead.

Deadheads silently milled around the monument, which consists of the names of war dead inscribed in black marble and a handful of lifesize statues of combat personnel. It reminded me that countless soldiers in that war found solace listening to Grateful Dead tunes, even as other Dead fans back home were marching against the war.

On Wednesday night someone had stuck a single red rose in the barrel of a bronze soldier's rifle. This time it wasn't a gesture of protest, but one of healing. The war really is over.

A touch of deja vu: last week's turnout at the City Council meeting of Maple Street residents begging for speed humps and stop signs on their street in the wake of the hit-and-run death of five-year-old Brian V. Sim.

Many of those same Maple Street residents attended a speed humps meeting sponsored by the city more than a year ago. At that time they emphatically asked City Engineer Joseph Loop for effective speed control on their street, their message being, "Let's do something about this before a child gets killed."

Well, nothing was done and now a child has been killed. Representatives of other neighborhoods were also at that meeting last year and delivered the same message. Let us pray that no more children have to die as the city staff gropes toward enlightenment on this very important issue.

The night Mickey Mantle died Channel 31 showed real class by seeking local reaction at the true epicenter of Sacramento baseball lore: Joe Marty's El Chico Bar on Broadway.

Old-timers will tell you the Sacramento Solons used to drink at Joe Marty's when they weren't playing minor league ball down the street where Target now stands. The walls are lined with photos of baseball greats inscribed to the late Joe Marty, the only Sacramentan ever to hit a home run in the World Series .

West Sac's own Ray Matteucci presides behind the bar on the occasional Friday night. He delights in introducing newcomers to the ex-major leaguer or two who frequent the landmark watering hole.

Country music alert! Sunday's Chronicle had a State Fair ad that listed Willie Nelson as the free entertainment for Aug. 29. In small print it said, "Subject to change without notice."

Several southern parcels in trouble

By Steve Marschke

According to public records filed with the County of Yolo, several large undeveloped properties in Southport and south of city limits have fallen into default in recent weeks. The land was apparently purchased for development. Further information could not immediately be obtained on the parcels, but records show that:

■ A large parcel in Southport near Jefferson Blvd. and the main drainage canal, purchased by the Sacramento River Development Co. (which lists Larry Kelly of Stanford Ranch as a contact, along with former Stanford Ranch pricipal Bruce Tripp) is delinquent about $379,000 on a $2.9 million loan. The property was purchased from Mary Palamidessi and others.

■ Another large parcel near Willow Rd. and South River Road in the Clarksburg area is in default about $11,000 on a $325,000 loan.

■ Property owned by Clarksburg Investors, which lists an address similar to that of Kaufman Manikas in Sacramento, is scheduled for trustee's sale Aug. 17. The unpaid balance is about $344,000, and the land is located near Clarksburg Rd.

The News-Ledger tried and failed to reach Larry Kelly and Dan Kaufman for comment, so details could not be confirmed.

Hartmann sues

Eugene Hartmann, a resident of a Cummins senior center, told the News-Ledger this week has has filed a $5 million lawsuit against NBC for allegedly slandering him during a newsmagazine interview last year.

The newsmagazine segment detailed accusations that Hartmann had once murdered a doctor with whom he shared an office in Los Angeles. Hartmann was convicted of the crime, but the conviction was later overturned.

The doctor's widow has published a book and has appeared on several talk shows and news programs with Hartmann, still alleging that Hartmann is a murderer.

Hartmann maintains that NBC slanted the story against him and left the false impression he is a murderer.

The Sports Insider

The Raiders won their first pre-season game in Oakland 27-22 over the St. Luis Rams, but are making the news with problems involving season tickets.

The Oakland Marketing Association has committed major mistakes in the promotion of Raiders tickets that will probably cost Marc Ganis, the director of marketing, his job. The ticket predicament has many fans misled by publicity about the high demand for tickets. Fans must not only buy tickets at an average price of $500 a year ($50), they must also pay one-time "personal seat license" fees of $250 to $4,000 a seat for the right to buy the tickets for ten years. But if you buy the club seats ($60), you have to pay a club premium fee yearly!!

The 49ers won their first pre-season game, beating the Chargers in San Diego 17-6 in a rematch of last season's Super Bowl. The Niners are ten-point favorites in their first pre-season home game at 5:00 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 19 against the expansion team Carolina Panthers.

The Sacramento Knights (12-2) continue to win, beating the Anaheim Splash at Arco Arena last Sunday 10-2, before 7,279 fans. The Knights' coach, Keith Weller, will coach the West on Tuesday in the CISL All-Star game in Portland. The Knights begin a two-game road trip and return to the Arco Arena on Friday, Aug. 25, against Detroit.

Mike Tyson returns on Saturday in boxing's first big pay-per-view event. For $50, fans can watch Iron Mike and Peter McNeeley live from Las Vegas. The odds in Las Vegas on the fight are $2,500 to win $100 on Tyson, or bet $100 to win $1,800 on McNeeley.

City softball league ends

From the City of West Sacramento

The 1995 West Sacramento Adult Softball League season is winding down.

A total of 48 men's and coed teams participated, with winners from each division competing in the best 2-out-of-3 playoffs. The champions of each division will receive sweatshirts and a sponsor trophy.

The caliber of play ranged from E2 to C and games were played five days per week. Players ranged from 18 to 60 years old. The adult softball program is self supporting, thus recovering 100 percent of all costs to operate the program.

A board of managers is currently being formed to help dictate how the league will be conducted. Also, signups are now being accepted for the Fall season, which begins Aug. 21. The Fall league will run for seven weeks. The fee is $215 per team.

News-Ledger Editorial

A mixed bag

A couple of readers objected to last week's label of attorney David Jones as "the most hated man in West Sacramento" in this space, and their concerns were valid.

The label was a bit arbitrary and misleading. There may well be others in town who draw more dislike.

It should, however, be noted that the News-Ledger's editor did not intend to endorse any of this "hate" that exists for Jones among some local officials and others. Jones is a well-intentioned individual who has caught the city in some mistakes, and who has perhaps gone overboard in other instances in a desire to protect the downtrodden. But no, he doesn't deserve to be hated.

Exactly what caused the accident last week in which a five-year old boy was killed on Maple St. is not known, and it is useless to cast blame here.

But the boy's death ought to be a reminder to parents everywhere -- are their children playing safely? When the kids bicycle, do the wear a helmet (now required by law) and stay in a safe area under supervision? When they play on foot, are they running barefoot through vacant lots filled with broken glass and used syringes, or do they go to better-maintained city parks?

Children are irreplaceable. They certainly worth the price of a bike helmet and a pair of shoes, and are certainly worth keeping an eye on while they play.

Several people have expressed anger that a planning commission discussion of a new methadone center (for the treatment of heroin addiction) at the Riverbend Market center took place before they had a chance to participate.

The News-Ledger (which, apparently, was the only news outlet to mention the proposal) did so only a day before the scheduled meeting, although it had unsuccessfully tried to prepare the article a week earlier. (Clinic representatives did not return the newspaper's calls either the first time or the second.)

Concerned citizens should be aware that there is another way to stay on top of official city actions well in advance: just skim through the legal notices section, where all of those small-print announcements are in the News-Ledger. The city is required to publish announcements of its public hearings well in advance of the hearing dates, and the News-Ledger has for the last three years been the winning bidder to provide this service.

Most of the legal notices ("public notices") in this section are irrelevant to most people, but residents who don't want to miss anything would do well to give them a glance every week. It just might save them some of the anger some of their neighbors felt over hearing about the methadone center too late.

City agendas can also be found at the library, Merkley Ave. post office, and city hall.

Letters to the Editor

Homeless vouchers

The August 2 News-Ledger reported, among other news items, that Sacramento County is now giving vouchers for its homeless to stay at our West Sacramento motels in quantity that must raise concern of everyone about the impact on our community's center. Surely the Chamber of Commerce, which opposed more bike paths on West Capitol Avenue, are going to act to find a better solution to the motels built in great number when West Capitol Avenue was the transcontinental highway! There needs to be a regional approach to the problem of the temporary and permanent homeless not an artificial redistribution of the area's homeless to our vulnerable community.

Also, it was good to see that the 1994-95 Grand Jury gave us as subscribers to the News-Ledger, full copies of their year-end report. Last year, it was given only to Davis and Woodland; this distribution is a recognition that East Yolo is a part of Yolo County. However, many of us were concerned with the report itself last year; detailed charges, recommendations require responses from the agencies (city and county). However, the answers are not distributed to the same readers. Certainly, it is progress to have the Grand Jury's finding given proper widespread distribution cut couldn't the publication of the report await the replies? The Grand Jury is, after all, aiming for fairness in government and should set the example.

Railing at idiots

A century ago, writer Gustave Flaubert issued a warning "By dint of railing at idiots you run the risk of becoming idiotic yourself." I think I've already crossed that line so let the railing begin. Ray Cushing's wrote a garbled column dissing David Jones; unfortunately, he has most of his facts upside down, inside out and half-assed backward.

I also initially met Dave Jones when he came to town to manage the Dukakis campaign. He told me of his past work on housing and discrimination issues. Later, I was surprised to learn he had taken a job with Legal Services and would remain in Yolo County. With his impressive education and eastern contacts, it seemed a strange place to launch a career. I figured he would stay a year or two, get tired of butting heads (some sitting on red necks) with the local powers that be, and go home. But don't knock a mix of youth and idealism; it can be a potent fuel. Dave hung in there.

It's hard to untangle most of Mrs. Cushing's logic but I challenge his contention that with David Jones gone, West Sacramento is now finally free to pursue code enforcement. Habitability complaints are regulated by complex enforcement laws with divergent applications to single dwelling, apartments, trailer parks and motels. These categories fall under complicated (some separate, some multiple) city, county, state and federal legal jurisdictions. All of the agencies responsible for enforcing the various habitability codes are under funded and seriously under manned.

Cushing's use of Oakland as a model is bogus. Oakland is an urban area with a high renter population and long established independent Tenant's Rights Coalitions that have been very successful in passing legal protections that are unheard of in this neck of the woods. West Sacramento is set in a rural homeowners county with a scattered unorganized tenant sector.

Yolo County also has a rather unique way of funding the Fair Housing program (legally required of a county receiving federal funds) and essentially treats it as an adjunct to the various city and county planning departments. It borders on an illegal conflict of interest because it creates a "fox guarding the henhouse" dilemma. With so much redevelopment going on, citizen complaints are often directed against the same people responsible for paying the ombudsman salary. It is not surprising that Legal Services has become the place of last resort for low income residents.

Dave Jones is not, as accused, a "grandstander." He went to bat (often to court) for hundreds of individuals trying to force motel owners and other housing providers to bring their rentals up to code. Due to greed and cash register politics, he didn't meet with much success. When the responsible agencies are unable or unwilling to enforce the laws until the property becomes so dangerous that the dwelling is condemned, it puts any housing advocate in a terrible dilemma. If the property is red tagged, the tenants (for a myriad of reasons) have no place to go.

I invite Mr. Cushing to go knock on the doors of people living in these motels and trailer parks. Meet them face to face. Talk to them. They are not "degenerates"; just folks (many with children) trying to survive in the midst of an housing crisis. For every homeless person, five other (often with children) are sharing cramped quarters with friends or unhappily bunking with relatives because they can't afford a place to hang their hat.

Dave did not "obstruct" anything. He went to court on behalf of low income clients to force the city to provide affordable housing as required by law. West Sacramento was in its infancy and just learning how to be a city. He tried to work with the city staff but they challenged his interpretation of existing law. At an impasse, only the courts could make the final decision. The law prevailed, the city lost. It's that simple.

As far as Mr. Cushing's con-

I really enjoyed the article of Mr. Cushing.

We need more people like him in the paper and in West Sacramento, because it might be the only way we get something done on West Capital Ave. We do need Mr. Fisher also, because he has the humor side to him, but maybe the News-Ledger can keep Mr. Cushing on. He did a great job.

Just wanted to congratulate you on Ray Cushing's article in the News-Ledger on Aug. 9, 'Not so fond farewell . . ..' He's commenting on a variety of things that need to be attended to. I'd like to say that I agree with him 100 percent.

I want to congratulate Ray Cushing on his recent column.

It's nice to see someone take on a subject important to all West Sacramentans and do such a fine job of it.

LETTERS from p. 5

cern about crime, that is a separate issue from motels being used for low income housing. If the police have sufficient evidence to arrest someone, it doesn't matter where they live. But police cannot just arrest people for talking together on the street (even if there are body tattoos and platform heels in plain view).

It always comes down to the same bottom line...money. Due to lack of funding, the police have to operate on a priority basis and pursue lawbreakers accordingly. I share Mr. Cushing's fear of violent criminals and sex offenders victimizing my children, but prostitution is mainly a health hazard. It should be legalized so it could be medically regulated and further prevent the spread of AIDS. Licensed bordellos (or whatever you call them) set in more remote areas where the customers knew where to find them would eliminate the need for street corner advertising.

Cushing's comparison of park maintenance to law enforcement is absurd. Stomping out crime is a little more complicated than stomping out crab grass (which isn't armed with assault weapons). Support President Clinton's crime bill, it would be a start toward giving the police the manpower they so desperately need.

Strange that Mr. Cushing says prostitutes are victims but repeatedly calls them "whores." The only time I use that nasty word is when I refer to the Republican congress. Cushing says "Good riddance, Dave." I say, "Way to go, Dave...Good riddance, Ray...Welcome back, Daryl."

Fat? Sick and Tired?

So was I. Overweight, suffering from chronic fatigue, experiencing hair loss, anxiety resulting in heart palpitations, and poor diet attached to a high stress work environment, blah, blah, blah. . . (Sound familiar?)

Well, today I have lost over 50 lbs., I weigh what I did as a high school junior nearly 18 years ago, the hair loss has stopped, the heart problems have ceased, my diet has greatly improved, and I no longer experience the high stress in virtually the same line of business.

This may not work for everyone, but if you want to know how to get off the track to a short life-span and one that may add years to a more productive and healthier life, simply call (800) 836-9180. I will send you a free tape, and personally return your call.

Be heard!

West Sacramento city council deferred an angry group of Maple/Holly residents. After the unfortunate death of Bryon Sim in their area, sparking their energies to again complain about the city council's dumping of problems near them and not solving old ills.

Council inferred that the police chief needed to help the area, but they were reminded that the problems were their failure to make resolutions to put in stop signs and direct their staff to solve ongoing problems with lack of authority in code enforcement under community development; no mitigations for the project area like sidewalks on a footbridge over the ditch. More drug programs added to the clinic making all the downtown area a festering place for problems, etc., etc., etc.

Being on neighborhood watch, it gauls me that police funding is minimal while real estate speculation is a priority.

And if you have a complaint about the police, please go in a file a grievance. One not get an appointment with the chief because of a receptionist's attitude, but she absolutely would not call back when someone else was taking calls, and she swears it was intentionally inspired by Chief Gore. Citizens, there is no proof that ESP is a way people function. You can gripe often you have done the paper work and there were results not pleasing to you. 99 percent of the time I have to beg people to call, write, fill out slips, call the hot line!

And Gore, Capt. Hoffman, Sgt. Moore, Farmer and Lisa Cox, C.O.P. have heard specifics on what I feel is a need for correction and they all work hard to improve their approaches to problems. Trust me, I am not a warm fuzzy person to deal with and relentless is my middle name.

Until council hires a mind reading act, there is only the power of your individual voices which will make the difference in our town.

I arrived early for the Wednesday council meeting and heard the Youth Commission say that the school had told them there was really no drug problem in this city. Here is a flash for the person imparting that fact to them, "denial" is the one main reason people stay locked into bad situations and fail to change or grow. I appreciate nice things being said but if someone brings things to your attention so that you will protect yourself from future problems, wisdom is my choice over flattery.

West Sac citizens don't want patronizing policies. We want better decisions and priorities.

Regular meetings are the third Tuesday of each month at 1:30 p.m. at the church recreation room at Michigan and Maple Streets. A special meeting will take place with city staff on August 23 at 7 p.m. at Westfield School on Poplar Street.

P.S. Bryte and Broderick and West Capitol area are going to have more low income housing (the good news is that it will be gated and privately owned; the bad news is they are allowing a density bonus, which is questionable).

More bad news is the 100 Methidone slots added to the clinic further impacting the cities funding and attracting 100 more addiction problems to our city.

Better start coming to council meetings now if you want to stop the problems before they arrive.

Brief reply:

I will try to get my point across in less than the 727 word letter to the editor of the News-Ledger of August 9 from the socialist writer who advocates rioting in the ghettos if we don't house and feed the so-called homeless.

I came out of the depression era when it was work or starve. I worked ten hours per day for $2 in a coal mine and jobs were more scarce then than now. I am 71 years of age and I can go out tomorrow and get a job -- all I need to do is go to Goodwill and buy some clean clothes and get a hair cut and shave and present myself as a worker instead of a dope smoker or wino. There are thousands of jobs advertised in the newspapers every day. I will say there are people who really need a boost to get started on their own, but not generation after generation as this welfare state has created. I wonder if the socialist writer has ever been out of West Sacramento and observed when happens when the government builds low-income housing? I wonder if the writer remembers what happened to the low-income complex the taxpayers was forced to build on Northgate Boulevard? Well, the tenants tore the place to pieces and sold the plumbing and everything else that could sell to supplement their welfare because it didn't buy their cigarettes and booze or whatever else they wanted, so finally a private contractor took it over and had to completely renovate the complex in order to make it livable again. I wonder if the bleeding heart writer has ever been to a big city like St. Louis? There are many three to four-story brick buildings with the windows boarded up that have been stripped of all the fixtures and the city runs ads in the paper wanting someone to pay the taxes and get the buildings for free and they have no takers so this tells me whey there are so many homeless people on the street as the writer has implied. The writer mentions distribution of wealth; I wonder how many times the writer has been hired by a poor person? If we were all poor, as some want us to be, then who would need a job at all? Fiddlesticks.

And to the writer, do I really believe eliminating affirmative action will create a colorblind society? It is a step in the right direction.

Traffic & planning

Last week's meetings were interesting, although (justifiably) emotional at times. The hit-and-run death of the five-year-old boy on August 8 makes this writer wonder: How often do such drivers jump behind the wheel of their vehicle when they are mad at the rest of the world and they get it off their chest by hot-rodding their vehicle around? This draws attention to them which they desperately need. The hot-rodder is "on top of the world" with this attention and usually does his things several times before causing a tragedy...by which time it is too late for that victim and family/friends. Alcohol or other drugs...not always a factor, although continued frustration with the rest of society and oneself is often enough.

Some contended too much attention and money was being aimed at our Southport area and not enough for sidewalks, four-way stops, speed bumps, playgrounds, etc. While such claims are at least partially true, it is hard to measure lest we have all the figures before us.

Also at the August 9 city council meeting, city leaders began eminent domain proceedings for property needed for the Industrial (aka: Palmadessi) Bridge. Surprisingly, no Mr. John Sulpizio from the port, but counsel for the Palmadessi family objected to the plan of the bridge, saying it would hit Jefferson Blvd. too close to their Pheasant Club and should be modified accordingly. Perhaps. But at what cost to whom else?

On August 10, our planning department held a community input hearing on the proposed new sewage treatment plant in Southport to serve all of West Sacramento, including the new paper recycling plant. Landowners whose property would be taken or adversely affected as a result were understandably disturbed...and some were talking of running for city council themselves. (And more West Sacramentans are calling for election of city council members by district, too.) I tried to calm them down and suggested we study the Sacramento side and tentatively suggest we locate the sewage treatment plant where it might have the greatest negative impact on the other side...and let Sacramentans know! And the Rx for preventing same from happening: Give West Sacramento a better break on initial hook-up to the area plant in Elk Grove with more favorable monthly rates thereafter and drop their opposition to another bridge across the Sacramento River. Such a bridge should be located near Florin Road and should include light rail crossings since Regional Transit plans to extend light rail to South Sacramento's Florin area. The results:

1) Less land for expanded sewer service;

2) Another bridge across the Sacramento River sooner, not

Police log

Aug. 8

A 37-year old woman was being booked at Yolo County Jail, and an officer taking inventory of her possessions saw a brown, tar-like substance on the blades of two knives the woman had. The substance tested positive for heroin, and drug charges were added against the suspect.

Aug. 8, 10:55 p.m.

At the Broderick boat ramp, an officer saw a 40-year old man get out of a vehicle, spot the police, and flee on foot. He was caught, and volunteered, "The other guy made me do it." He was placed in a patrol car while an officer inspected the other car, finding a broken side window, a rock on the floor, and a CB radio removed from its mount in the car. The suspect had a screwdriver and flashlight in a pants pocket. He was arrested.

Aug. 8, noon

Aug. 9, 8:24 a.m.

A woman flagged down an officer, saying a 40-year old man had stolen $10 from her on West Capitol. He had asked her for a cigarette, and when she opened her purse, he spotted two $5 bills inside. He grabbed her purse, took the money, threw the purse on the ground, and fled. Police arrested him a half hour later.

Aug. 11, 3:55 p.m.

At 3rd and West Capitol, a 32-year old man was seen by West Sacramento's police chief striking his wife three times in the face with his fist. The chief called for assistance, and the man was arrested by an officer after a brief chase.

Aug. 13, 1:55 p.m.

A female caller reported that her parents were physically fighting in front of a Hobson Ave. residence.

Aug. 14, 11:58 p.m.

A man and woman came to an Evergreen Cir. apartment and told a victim to "give me your money," while displaying a pistol in the man's pocket. The resident said he had no money, and the suspects left after a verbal exchange.

Aug. 14, 1:01 a.m.

A burglary was reported at the Manzanita Ave. home of a single, elderly woman. The suspect gained entry through a window screen.

Finally, I wish to thank Mr. Joseph Childers for last week's "Watch that sugar!" letter. I would like to add, "Watch that caffeine (also)!" Many of us -- especially seniors -- must minimize our intake of both sugar and caffeine because of our conditions, including the medicines we must take that interact adversely! How many eateries offer cold, soft drinks containing neither sugar nor caffeine? And how about all of those "package deals" offering no such choice? They say to many of us, "These deals aren't being offered to you!" Strength in numbers, we are told

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF OSWALD PAUL TEXEL

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may be otherwise interested in the will or estate, or both, of Oswald Paul Texel:

A PETITION has been filed by Douglas A. Kaplan, Public Administrator, in the Superior Court of California, County of Yolo.

THE PETITION requests that Douglas A. Kaplan, Public Administrator, be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

The PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will follow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on September 8, 1995 at 9:00 a.m. in Dept. Four, Room 200, located at 725 Court Street, Woodland, CA 95695.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in section 9100 of the California Probate Code. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a formal Request for Special Notice of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in section 1250 of the California Probate Code. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

The Sacramento River registered 12 feet 5 inches, U. S. gauge at the Southern Pacific bridge, yesterday. This is a fall of nearly three feet since last week when the gauge registered 15 feet 2 inches and is accounted for only by the fact that the weather has been extremely cool delaying the melting of snow in the mountains.

Local fishermen may resume fishing on the Sacramento River on June 6th, although, to all intents and purposes, this is the closed season. The Fish and Game Commission has successfully put over so many foolish laws that they conflict and fishermen may reap the results.

Last Tuesday Earl Pankost took to Colusa 150 lengths of three-foot concrete pipe on board one of the Pankost barges. This is irrigation pipe that will be used in the rice fields. On the return trip he will load a large ditcher at Colusa and unload it at Knights Landing.

Two autos collided head-on yesterday afternoon at the crossing at Third and Ann streets. One was driven by D. Pellini of 1276 Pacific avenue, Sacramento, while the other was driven by a Knights Landing man who had taken on a large dose of jackass. Little damage was done to either automobile but the crash drew a great crowd for a few minutes.

AUTO ACCIDENTS happen every day. Are you in a position to stand the loss if the car you drive meets with an accident? We can insure you against this loss or any other you may sustain. Edwin R. Pickett, General Insurance. 308 Farmers Bank Bldg., Sacramento Phone Main 518.

Last Tuesday Constable Henry Buckingham sent back to San Francisco three youngsters about 14 years of age who had set out to see the world. When taken into custody here they claimed they had already seen all they wanted and were anxious to return home. Their parents were notified and funds were sent them for the return journey.

Pankost barge No. 6 is stranded at Knights Landing on a river bar since last Sunday, where it conveyed a party of Natomas employes for a picnic. During the night the river receded so much that the barge was left high and dry. Today the steamer San Joaquin No. 2 pulled the barge off the bar.

E. F. Johnson and wife were visitors for Memorial Day at the home of Mrs. Johnson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Buckingham. They returned to Stockton Monday evening.

Word has been received from Frank Buckingham that he is now located at San Diego and is congratulating himself that he did not succeed in getting a place on the lost U. S. S. Conestago. He tried to make the place but failed because a friend beat him to the job. The Conestago has been lost during the past two weeks; no trace having been found of the ship and all efforts to locate it having failed.

Percy is not an adept at riding a motorcycle yet, but consfant practice is helping him to improve. His friends give him a wide berth when they see him on the motorcycle, he wobbles so much they are fearful of their personal safety.

BOYS ESCAPE WITH SEVERE LECTURE FROM JUDGE BARRY

Last Tuesday Tony Rava and J. Borgoni, youths about 15 and 16 years of age, were given a severe lecture by Judge Barry because they had broken into the home of W. Murray, on the Herget place, and taken a revolver.

Murray refused to prosecute when the gun was returned to him, and this saved the boys from, at least, a term under probation.

The boys were arrested by Constable Buckingham, who believes that these young men must behave themselves or he will have no compassion on them.

Several boys around town are inclined to be rough and don't hesitate to commit petty infractions of the law that will not be countenanced by the Constable or Judge Barry.

There are several now who are under suspicion and who must mend their ways or be called before the juvenile courts.

It was fortunate for the above young men that Mr. Murray refused to prosecute.

FISHING SEASON BROUGHT POOR RETURNS TO MANY LOCAL MEN

The salmon season, which closed on May 31, was far from satisfactory to many local fishermen.

The early part of the season was of no use because of extremely high water which prevented the usual run of fish.

Later, when the river receded, some good catches were made, but that was at a time when the price dropped so low that only a small margin was left for the workingmen.

During Lent, when prices were good, very few fish were caught, and following Lent, when the demand was slow, prices dropped very much.

A great quantity was shipped to Eastern markets but practically none was mild-cured as has been the custom for many years past.

Farther north along the river during the month of May there were great quantities of fish caught, most of which was sent to the San Francisco markets.

South of Courtland and as far as Collinsville, good catches were made but few fish from that locality were sent to the Sacramento wholesalers.

The Pankost Boat and Fishery Co. had a fairly profitable season and is preparing to enlarge their facilities for handling future seasons.

Twelve million dollars' worth of liquor is in custody of the Sheriff of New York. All this was taken within the last month in various raids.

The Corporation Counsel has ordered that it be sent to the hospitals to be used as medicine.

The District Attorney of Yolo County should take a lesson.

ROAD BUILDING UNDER BOND ISSUE IS MOVING ALONG SWIFTLY

Yesterday the McGillivray Construction Company started laying the base of the county road between Rose orchard and the Sacramento weir.

During the past few days the concrete road extending through Riverbank was covered with a surfacing which measured two inches thick and now coincides with the road built from the Riverbank Inn to the concrete road above mentioned.

Yesterday afternoon Supervisors Leinberger, Russell and Hutchins, with County Engineer Proctor, viewed the work already done and were evidently well satisfied with the work of the contractors so far completed.

In laying the base of the road from Rose orchard to the Sacramento weir there is somewhat of a disagreement between the contractors and County Engineer Proctor.

Proctor wants the base of that section started at the weir, working backwards to Rose orchard. This the contractors don't want because it would mean a longer and harder haul.

The contractors are using the Clark & Henery plant in Sacramento hauling their base mixtures in trucks carrying a load of eleven tons. This they want to dump as they proceed northward in the road building.

Proctor believes that loads of this character will ruin a freshly laid base and objects to the building of the road in this way. He wants to start at the weir moving backwards to Rose orchard, so as to avoid taking great loads over the newly laid road.

The question has been referred to the district attorney as to the right of the contractors and the people with the probability of an early understanding.

The supervisors mentioned above went out yesterday to view the road construction and help along towards an amicable understanding in the construction of the roads.

The Westminister Presbyterian Church in Sacramento is having a large cellar excavated under the building.

Neighbors are asking how soon the stock will be stored.

Booths, food & fun at annual picnic

From the Women of the Moose No. 1431
West Sacramento

The annual Moose Lodge picnic will be held on Saturday, August 19 at the Moose Lodge grounds on Jefferson Blvd.

Starting at 10 a.m., the Loyal Order and Women of the Moose will have booths of food, including watermelon, hot dogs, and tacos; a white elephant sale; and a plant sale. A $50 raffle prize will be given away during the day.

Members will have a chance to dunk their senior regent and governor in the dunk tank. There will be a children's carnival with water games and face painting, and bingo. A dinner will be served, consisting of 1/2 baked chicken, beans, cole slaw, corn-on-the-cob, biscuits, and dessert for $6 per person.

All Moose members are invited to bring their families and enjoy a day of fun in the sun at the Moose Lodge.

Suspects pursued in theft of postal cash

The Sacramento Bee has reported that postal investigators have identified suspects in the June 5 theft of more than $100,000 from the West Sacramento district postal center.

Some of the money has been recovered, and the case will be presented to the U.S. Attorney's office and Grand Jury.

have mitigation for the organic compounds and cyanide, but it's unclear if that's going to be sufficient."

Buck also expressed concern about the level of heat pollution to be released by the paper plant through the new sewage plant, and said the EIR did not take into consideration "worst case" scenarios of low river flow.

Low water flows could lead to more concentrated pollution as the discharge pipes drop their flow into the Sacramento River near Clarksburg. The EIR also does not take into account the phenomenon in which tidal flows actually cause the Sacramento River to reverse itself and flow upstream for a few hours on some days, meaning that a segment of the river could actually flow past the sewage discharge pipe three times before heading down the river with an "extra" load of pollutants.

A spokesman for MacMillan Bloedel of Vancouver, which is one of two international partners in the paper plant venture, could not immediately be reached for comment, although the News-Ledger has requested a future interview regarding the environmental review.

The California Urban Water Association, which Buck represents, includes 11 urban water agencies (mostly from the Bay Area and Southern California). Four of the agencies are especially concerned over the West Sacramento project, he said, including the Metropolitan Water Agency, which handles water for millions of Southern California customers; the Contra Costa Water District; the Orange County Water District; and the Santa Clara Valley Water District.

These four agencies draw water from the Delta, downstream of West Sacramento's discharge point.

Buck said the water companies are also concerned about the impacts of the sewage plant on river and Delta fish, since any damage to the fish population will probably bring a reduction in the amount of water urban agencies are allowed to draw from the Delta.

The draft EIR was released last month after a delay of about a year, partly due to needed retesting of effluent from a similar newsprint plant in Germany. Initial tests contained levels of heavy metals that made the additional study necessary.

The city sewage plant is slated for West Sacramento's Southport region, near southern city limits and east of Jefferson Blvd. The paper plant is planned for the Southport Industrial Park, southwest of the Port of Sacramento.

Industrial zoning for the industrial park was assured after developers defeated a land use initiative in 1990, but both industrial development and construction of a needed industrial bridge have faced delays since that approval.

MacMillan Bloedel has spent a reported $5 million on the planning and approval process for the proposed West Sacramento plant, which would create newsprint from recycled sources.

Jones was re-elected for a second term on the council in 1988, and served as mayor from 1991-92.

He retired from public service in 1992.

But by then, Jones had amassed a resume of contribution to such groups as local school board (1963-1975, including six years as president), the Elkhorn Civic Club, Washington/Elkhorn PTA, East Yolo Planning Council (15 years), Yolo County School Boards Association (11 years, including three as president), as chairman of the water bond election committee, and as a five-year president of the East Yolo Friends of the Library.

Jones also worked with the county on city incorporation issues, and with the Los Rios Community College District master plan review committee, and with several other public functions.

His gravelly voice was familiar presiding over many public meetings in the East Yolo area, where Jones settled after five years in the Air Force.

He said he would "wholeheartedly" recommend the postal service to others as a career, and said he never wanted to "go the route" of promotions and transfers -- he was always happy serving Broderick and West Sacramento from the postal facility at the Riverbend center on Sacramento Ave.

"There was a saying at the post office -- if you work hard and take care of people, you'll get promoted. Well, that happened to me. But I didn't want to leave -- I always liked the people here. They are homespun, hardworking, with a good sense of humor. They're just good folks."

He says the postal service doesn't deserve it's questionable reputation.

"When you consider that the postal facility on Industrial Blvd. handles six million pieces of mail every day, the one percent error rate is really small," said Jones.

Postal regulations require the government to consider consolidating the post offices at Bryte, Broderick and West Sacramento (on Merkley Ave.).

But Jones said he has recommended that it maintain all three, and that it begin running carriers out of the Broderick facility again. The Merkley Ave. post office is straining to manager all the city's carrier routes, he said, and growth is inevitable.

He also recommended that Bill Kristoff -- a longtime friend of Jones and current city council member, who until Jones' retirement, worked at the Bryte post office -- manage Broderick's office until a permanent decision is made. Management has accepted that suggestion.

A longstanding quip of the retired postmaster is to answer the question, "How are you?" with an estimate of his health at the moment by percent.

As Jones has battled health problems in recent years, his estimates have often gone as low as "about 50 percent."

How is he today?

"94 percent," he answers with confidence.

Only about two weeks of convalescence from a recent back strain are all that stand between Ray Jones and the golf course.

Maple area residents are angry

By Steve Marschke

Several dozen residents of the Maple St. area criticized West Sacramento City Council members for not doing enough to alleviate crime and traffic danger in the area, during the council's meeting Aug. 9.

"There were about 20 to 30 people there concerned about safety and crime in the neighborhood," said Steve Patek, community development director for the city.

The group is arranging a neighborhood meeting, to which it will invite council members, he said, but further details were not immediately available.

The Wednesday night discussion came a day after a five-year old Evergreen Ave. boy was killed by a van while bicycling on Maple St., and some residents renewed their demands that the Maple/Michigan intersection be turned into a four-way stop intersection.

"There's currently a stop on Michigan Ave., but it's only a two-way stop," said Patek. "We're going to do another test to see if the intersection meets CalTrans standards (for a four-way stop). Or, we'll consider creating our own city-wide stop sign standards."

Patek added that the CalTrans standards involve traffic volume, lines of sight and visibility, and other factors. If the city were to place a stop sign in a place that doesn't qualify for one under the CalTrans guidelines, he said, and that stop sign were to contribute to a traffic accident, then the city could face significant legal "exposure" as a result of the accident.

"Most cities use CalTrans standards," Patek commented.

or later the patient will choose a new doctor or die. Medicare itself is dying. It's high-time we chose a new doctor," John Herrington was quoted in a press release.

A low key response issued by Fazio's Sacramento campaign office stated that Fazio was busy discussing the Medicare issue with Colusa County residents of Colusa County while the republicans were beginning their campaign.

"Today, Congressman Vic Fazio was in Colusa County talking to seniors and rotarians about his efforts to save Medicare and represent their interests on agriculture and water issues, while national and state GOP leaders were trying to head off a major primary fight next year.

"The effort unveiled against Vic Fazio's strong service to the people of the third district is driven more by concerns about attempting to avoid a battle between conservative and right-wing republicans than having an effect on the general election nearly a year and a half away.

"Fazio believes there is plenty of time for next year's election. His time is better spent on saving Medicare, bringing privatization assistance for new jobs at McClellan Air Force Base and representing our interests in Washington," said the press release.
